INTRODUCTION

There are people who believe the world would be better off if you were not in it. These people - who call themselves globalists - don't know you. They just feel the world would be better with less people. They have been planning how to achieve this for quite some time. Their plan was originally called "The Great Culling". Later, it became known as "Agenda 21". Today, we know it as "Agenda 2030" [1], apparently because they feel that it can be completed by the year 2030. Basically, the plan calls for reducing the human population of Earth to five hundred million people. There are various ways devised to accomplish this which we will discuss here.

In the plan, every country has been assigned a quota of how many people it can keep. The quota for the United States is twenty million according to Al Bielek. The people who have permission to live have been given a "ticket". The quota for every country is different. Together, they add up to five hundred million.

PROPAGANDA TECHNIQUES

One current technique is to promote a childless lifestyle. Techniques include things such as the emphasizing cost of having children, the inconvenience of pregnancy, and the freedom to run the streets unattached. Whatever the reason, it is working. Many countries now face a future of a declining population. Denmark was one of the first countries to run ads begging couples to please have kids. You can watch these videos on you tube if you search for "Do It for Denmark". Other countries publicly complaining about low birth rate include Russia and Italy.

Another active technique is to promote same sex relationships, reasoning that it would be less likely to have kids in such situations.

VACCINES

In the United States, vaccine companies cannot be held liable for any damage their products cause. Therefore, there is no reason for them to care. Congressional testimony confirms that the Covid vaccine kills 74% of the people who receive it [2]. Also, in court documents Astrazenica admitted that their Covid vaccine caused blood clots (lethal) [3]. However, it gets better. World renowned Oncologist, Professor Angus Dalglesh says vaccine companies are deliberately adding a monkey virus known as SV40 [5] to vaccines. SV40 is not immediately lethal but will likely cause various cancers eventually. It is also sexually transmitted.

There are societies that do not use vaccines. They also generally avoid doctors. Strangely, members of these groups, such as Mormons and the Amish, do not get Autism as well as an assortment of other ailments common to the general population. Do you think there might be some connection here?

DEGRADE NATURAL RACES

If you can't kill everyone, you can encourage the breeding of less than human creatures. This would be accomplished by encouraging mixed race relationships. Such a population would be more susceptible to sophisticated propaganda and so more easily controlled. Some cultures, especially Israelis, know this and are very protective of their bloodline - especially their females. They actively work to insure their race remains pure.

CREATE PANDEMICS

For example, SARS is a relatively harmless virus. It is hard to catch and easy to treat and cure. However, there is no vaccine to protect people against SARS. Curious scientists tried for over fifteen years to create an effective vaccine with no luck. Then, someone got the bright idea to use SARS as a base for a new virus which was easy to catch and often lethal reasoning that an effective vaccine would be elusive if not impossible. Scientists used "Gain of Function" techniques to deliberately create the most deadly disease possible. This is how Covid 19 came to exist. Reportedly, globally, this designer virus killed two billion people. The creators were ecstatic!

Other attempts have run into problems. Weaponized Ebola, developed in a secret US lab in Africa, reportedly killed twenty five thousand locals when released in a beta test. Originally, there was no known antidote. Then, Russia created an effective antidote making the virus unusable as a mass destruction weapon.

Attempts to weaponize other viruses have largely been a flop. Bird flu had promise but expectations did not materialize. Other candidates have so far failed. Of course, these people never give up.

CONTAMINATE WATER SUPPLY

This is actually an old trick. In Rome, the elite people received their water thru ceramic pipes. However water was delivered to the ordinary people by lead pipes. Even then, the Romans knew that lead in the water was deadly. Of course, people did not die right away. They grew up to be useful slaves but were "dumbed down" by the lead and died prematurely. You see reports of public water supplies with lead contamination even today. Fluoride is another more recent contaminant. Claimed to reduce cavities, the effects of fluoride go far beyond that. Fluoride has no place in your body. Sodium fluoride - the common ingredient in toothpaste - is a deadly poison. There is even a fine print warning on tubes of toothpaste containing fluoride advising "call a poison control center if you accidentally swallow any".

ENCOURAGE UNHEALTHY FOOD

The food supply in the United States is perhaps the worst in the world and certainly the worst of any developed country. Food sold for human consumption in the US is not the same as equivalent food sold in other countries [6]. This fact may help to explain why today's children are dying much earlier than their parents [7]. Highly processed foods and an abundance of sugar in pretty much everything appears to be the main culprit.

EDUCATION

Most creatures have instinct. When they are born, they know who they are and have the knowledge of all the skills they will need to complete their lives. Humans, however, do not. They know essentially nothing. They must be educated. The quality of this education determines their ability to deal with future events. Information control allows the ruling class to effectively regulate the lives of "ordinary" people. Information is a commodity and it is not for everyone. The government decides what you are allowed to know. Basically, you are allowed to know basic facts which will allow you to function in society as a well disciplined slave. You are not allowed to know information which will lead you to explore things beyond your boundaries or engage in creative thinking which could lead you into restricted areas or to question the status quo. How "higher" higher education is depends on who you are. You may go to college, but what you learn there may not leave you competent in the areas you study. When the government established a partnership with colleges and universities [8], it altered areas like science and engineering so the ordinary student would never fully understand the subject due to omitted critical data. The professors likely know the complete subject but are prohibited from teaching key points because of "national security". In history, for example, the real history of the United States is secret. The real history is available in a set of books known as Foreign Relations of the United States or FRUS. These books are kept in government libraries and people with top secret (Q) clearances are free to access them. The FRUS books also cover relations with aliens. You will not learn any of these things if you major in history.

DAMAGE ENVIRONMENT

The people who make decisions on this planet could not care less about the environment. They do, however, care about money. Life here exists in a very narrow set of parameters. If these change life cannot continue. Man is not extinct - yet. Man is pretty creative when it comes to survival. Other creatures are not. You can search for "species recently extinct" to see what species are no longer with us.

RF RADIATION

You can't see RF radiation but it is there and it is about to get a lot worse. The new 6G system transmits spread spectrum across all the useable higher frequencies up to 175 GHz. Using high power on these frequencies was once prohibited because of danger to people. However, all these prohibitions have now been canceled. Even much lower frequencies have been shown to damage plants. Plants close to electric meters which report readings using RF (typically 927 Mhz) have wilted. None of the effects from exposure to RF are positive and the more sources in use equate to more damage.

MEDICAL PROFESSION / PHARMACEUTICALS

There was a news story years ago about a town where the doctors went on strike. During this time, the death rate actually went down. Imagine that!

Back in the old days, you might take a fat hen or turkey to pay the doctor for your visit. Also, what happened stayed between you and your doctor. Today, thanks to Electronic Medical Records (EMR), those days are gone. EMR, a system set up by Obama when he was president, requires that everything that transpires between you and your doctor be reported to the government. This information is stored and is available to government agencies as well as certain private organizations. Why would they want this information? EMR is a two way system. Government computers send notices to doctors concerning your treatment. Doctors are expected to comply with these "suggestions". Could it possibly be so that "AI" might use it to determine if you were no longer "useful" and need to be put down somehow. Why would a country with the most advanced health care system have the highest death rate of any developed country?

Only the United States and New Zealand allow drug companies to advertise their products directly to the general population. That said, you may notice something unusual in the TV ads for the HPV vaccine Gardasil. In bold print it states "For most people, HPV clears on its own" [10]. So, the drug company is telling you you don't really need this. Since vaccines have adverse reactions, why should run out to get injected with something you likely don't need?

A recent investigation determined that some health care companies are paying nursing homes to deliberately delay medical treatment so as to increase the chances of death [9]. These companies recruit members by promising members extra cash every month. Nothing is free. The cash you get comes out of the profit these people get by inserting themselves between you and your government benefits. You actually pay with your life because these companies will generally deny payment for expensive potentially life saving procedures.

People don't go to doctors to chat about the weather. They go because they are sick. If they don't get sick, they don't go. If they don't go, doctors don't make money. So, if you are a doctor and you want a high standard of living, it is important that people get sick and stay sick so that they keep coming. A healthy society is not in their financial interest. The pharmaceutical companies are more than happy to help out. They need doctors so they can get their drugs into the hands of the people. Actually, they have a very close relationship with doctors that begins in medical school.

WAR

Agenda 2030 requires that only five hundred million be left alive by the year 2030. Beginning with a total of about eight billion, reportedly about two billion were killed by the combination of Covid designer virus and the poison vaccine [11]. This leaves about six billion people which need to be killed by the year 2030.

War is a great way to kill people and has been a common practice throughout history. Many mass destruction weapons exist today, For the 500 million survivors, there is plenty enough space in the underground facilities to house them while the surface is "cleansed".
