DEFINING "THE HERD"

The phrase "The Herd" appears to have originated in the United Nations. These people use this phrase to refer to humanity in general. By using these words, they indicate that they do not believe that the general human population of this planet are independent human beings but are equivalent to say "a herd of sheep" or "a herd of cattle". The casual use of this term means that the so called "world leaders" do not view "ordinary people" as their equals but, rather, as some type of inferior beings which are "their property". This is how they view you and this is how they treat you.

HISTORY OF THE CONCEPT

Although "the herd" is a recent descriptor for the attitude of the "elite", the underlying concept is not new. Based upon the history publicly available, although times change and descriptions change, the basic philosophy which today is known as "the herd" has not changed. Most available history is restricted to elite groups. For example, the Vatican Archives are said to contain accurate history of this planet from the age of Leo. The age of Leo began in the year ten thousand B.C. (If you are not familiar with this concept, ages are determined by the Precession of the Equinoxes and you can find out all about this on the Internet. We are now in the Age of Pisces - which is why the Pope's hat is shaped like the open mouth of a fish since the symbol for Pisces is two fish. The next age will be Aquarius)

Now, throughout the time periods most people know about, there have always been people who wanted to be "king of the hill". There is no difference between these people and other people - after all, they are all made out of the same "stuff" - however, these people believe they are "special" and, therefore, have the right to order other people around. They went by many names such as Kings and Queens who asserted they ruled others by "The Divine Right of Kings".

Previously, there were the Lords and Serfs. The Lords - collectively - claimed ownership of the Earth. The Serfs owned nothing. So, if the Serfs wished to survive, they needed to submit to one of the Lords in order to be granted a bit of land so that they could continue to live - which they did not own - by one of the Lords.

The Lords were defeated which led to a variety of social systems. Many were based upon some religion and others such as Socialism, Capitalism and Communism were based upon non religious constructs. However, the Lords never went away. Instead, they went "underground" - formed secret groups and planned for the day that things would return to the way they were when the Lords ruled. Their descendants exist today and they are now very close to achieving their goal.

ISSUES IN THE AGE OF KINGS

When the world was run by Kings - complete with castles, a defense force and a group of "loyal" followers to do all the "grunt" work so that the King and his inner circle could live comfortably, overpopulation eventually became an issue. The King had decided he was special - ruled by divine right and so on - but that was simply his opinion. So, as the population increased, the King had to consider the possibility that one or more of his "subjects" would decide that he had divine rights and overthrow the King and seize control of the Kingdom.

Now, the various Kings knew each other just as, today, various "heads of state" know each other. Kings would visit each other and usually bring a gift which would likely be a new girl for his harem. Girls have always been commodities as they are today. Now, when two Kings got together, they would discuss common problems. Generally, the issue of overpopulation would be considered because each King knew that - should the population become unmanageable - eventually someone might have the guts to challenge the King and try to take over. So, a common solution to this would be that the two Kings - who were friends - would arrange for a war between their kingdoms which would reduce the population (today we would say "trim the herd") to the point that the risk that either would be overthrown would be reduced. So, they would have a war.

PARALLELS IN TODAY'S WORLD

Nothing has really changed today. I was taught in the early 1960's in high school in Sociology to expect a war about every twenty years because that was the only way governments could control their populations. Vietnam was active then. In those days, teachers actually taught kids the truth. However, those days are gone. Vietnam would still be going on today if the people had not protested to the point that the government feared civil war. So, they gave in and stopped the war. Of course, new methods of killing people exist today with birth control, abortions and drugs (especially vaccines). War still exists, however, since the government uses mainly "contractors" (mercenary killers) together with various lethal technologies and has abandoned the draft no one seems to notice or care.

Also, mass resistance would not happen today because the young people are drugged and dummed down to the point that they are too chicken to challenge the government. However, this is not universally true and all you have to do is look at Hong Kong to see what happens when the central government challenges "real people".

MODERN DAY LORDS AND SERFS

When you need a place to stay to survive another day to go to your dead end minimum wage job(s), you must pay rent to your Land Lord - just as people did years ago in order to survive. Actually, reportedly, very few of the young kids today will ever be able to afford their own home. They will at the mercy of landlords their entire life.

Actually, due to the process known as "wealth confiscation", a group of eight men [1] own more than the rest of the world combined. They are your Lords and you are now Serfs. Here are your Lords:

1. Bill Gates: $75 billion
2. Amancio Ortega: $67 billion
3. Warren Buffett: $60.8 billion
4. Carlos Slim Helu: $50 billion
5. Jeff Bezos: $45.2 billion
6. Mark Zuckerberg: $44.6 billion
7. Larry Ellison: $43.6 billion
8. Michael Bloomberg: $40 billion

So, essentially, things have now returned to where they were hundreds of years ago. You just don't realize it - yet.

EFFECTS OF TECHNOLOGY

When technology became a "buzz word", people were thrilled. Technology would transform the world into some type of "Garden of Eden" place and everything would be perfect. Most people still believe that. However, they forget that we live in a world of duality and that anything that can be used for positive purposes can also be used for negative purposes. Until your life experiences show you differently, it is natural to assume that new developments are for the good of mankind. Unfortunately, not everyone is interested in the "good of mankind" and those people see technology as their key to a world of dysphoria where life is unbearably miserable. These people do not advertise their intent, however the effects are becoming more obvious.

There are many examples of technology that people love and use but simply do not understand the consequences. For example, people use microwave ovens to cook food but do not associate that with the fact that holding a cell phone next to your head all the time is microwaving (cooking) your brain. Many women keep their cell phones in their bra when not using it not realizing that the device is always transmitting and - later in life - when they "just happen" to get breast cancer in the exact spot they used to stash their phone for so many years they somehow never associate the two events.

All these electronic gadgets do make life easier, however the negative effects are not considered.

Selling information is a multi billion dollar business and it is primarily facilitated by the fact that anything you do using some electronic medium can be intercepted by others who can use it anyway they please. There is a cute example of a pregnant woman who had told no one - not even her husband. However, she began getting junk mail advertising stuff that a new mom would likely need. How could they possibly know, she wondered. The supermarket computer had detected her based upon an algorithm designed to look for things a pregnant women would likely purchase and (automatically) reported her to select advertisers. Of course, the store gets paid for this information.

SCIENTIFIC ATHEISM AND HUMANISM

Science and Scientific Atheism are inseparable. The "religion" of Scientific Atheism is called "Humanism". Humanism asserts the classic scientist party line that there is no god and that everything that exists does so by random chance. So you are just some "thing" that just happens to be here because lightning hit a rock with the right chemical structure (or whatever) and this created some form of primitive life which gradually "evolved" into all other life including you. Therefore, there is no "pre ordained" purpose to life and there are no rules and the fact that you can figure out how to do something gives you the right to actually do that something regardless of consequences. However, Humanism asserts that people should be nice to each other because it is better to be nice than to be "not nice" and being nice is a better way to live. Actually, Humanism is the philosophy expressed by "Mr. Spock" in the original "Star Trek" series. Basically, logic is the correct method to approach and understand everything.

Scientific Atheism leads to the society we now have. If you have abilities, use them. Don't worry about consequences. There is no "judgment" and no such thing as right or wrong. As long as you have the power, anything you choose to do is right because no one can stop you.

A good example of this philosophy in practice was the Montauk project and the "Montauk Boys". Montauk was on Long Island, New York. This area is affluent and people are educated and wealthy. However, when it came time to collect some boys for the project, the leaders casually said. "Just take an unmarked van and drive around and - when you see a kid we can use - just grab him". Now these kids came from wealthy families and their parents would never see them again. Many would be killed during the mind control programming process because the original techniques were quite brutal.

In case you don't know about the Montauk boys, there are many internet references as well as you tube videos and there is also a comprehensive book, "Montauk Revisited" by Preston Nichols and Peter Moon.

However, the significance of this example is to illustrate the attitude that scientists have toward "ordinary" people. They see - "the herd" - as no different from a bunch of chickens running around the yard.

MARRIAGE OF SCIENCE WITH WITCHCRAFT, SORCERY AND VOODOO

We don't here much about Witchcraft, Sorcery and Voodoo and so it is easy to assume that these things are "relics of the past" and are no longer relevant. Not true. They are alive and thriving. They just have - collectively - a new name. That name is "Psychiatry". Psychiatry uses principles from Witchcraft, Sorcery and Voodoo together with science to design a system which primarily functions to force people to live out their lives in a manner which they would not have freely chosen. Even "spells" from the "Egyptian Book of the Dead" are used. Basically, we are talking about brainwashing.

In the old days, witches had to rely on naturally occurring things for their "brew" (eye of newt, tongue of frog and so on), however, today, based upon intense study of human beings which began at the end of World War II (when Nazi doctors and scientists were secretly imported into the US under "Operation Paperclip"), the functions of the human brain have been mapped out leading to the development of sophisticated chemicals - which do not naturally exist in nature - which can alter natural brain functions. Years of experiments, mainly beginning with project MK Ultra which never actually ended and which continues to this day using a series of different "code names", have perfected mind control into a fine art.

There are two levels of Psychiatry - Conventional Psychiatry and Top Secret Psychiatry - and we discuss both of these in other books on this site by those titles.

EFFECTS AND PHILOSOPHY OF SCIENCE

Science had a slow but logical start. Originally, the Priestcraft proclaimed what was truth. Generally, if you disagreed, you were killed. However, gradually, cracks appeared in their official philosophy of what was true and what was not that were difficult to "patch over". When Galileo presented proof that the Earth revolved around the Sun, there was a problem. The Pope had proclaimed that the Sun revolved around the Earth and anyone who disagreed was killed. Unfortunately, Galileo's proof was logically correct and not easy to "patch over". Of course, he was taken before the Pope to be "judged". The Pope did not order Galileo killed but, instead, admitted to him privately that the Church had always known that the Earth revolved around the Sun and his calculations were correct BUT that the Church reserved the power to determine what people were told to believe and he must therefore be isolated and stop telling the truth to "ordinary" people (sound familiar). So Galileo kept quiet so that he could continue to live.

However, there would be other "cracks" and, eventually, there emerged a group of people who, today, we call "scientists" who decided that truth must be proved before it could be accepted as truth. This philosophy began a long road which continues today. One axiom of science, "If you can't see it, then it does not exist", was to lead to problems. For example, when people started calling themselves "doctors", the microscope had not yet been invented. So, since you could not see germs, they did not exist. Therefore, there was no reason to bathe or wash your hands. Consequently, most people who sought help from "doctors" died from infections.

Since science continued to explore and learn that Church teachings were often ridiculous, the basic philosophy of science, "scientific atheism", began to emerge and take root. However, science had a long way to go. Eventually, science got "scary" when it became possible to prove that the Universe could not be an accident but could have only come to exist as the result of "intelligent design". That was just too close to religion to be tolerated and also trashed scientific atheism, so science began acting like the church and Pope of long ago, deciding what "ordinary" people should be allowed to know and what truths should only be revealed to "special people" who had the "need to know" (sound familiar). So, now we are smarter but have essentially come "full circle" and, philosophically, have returned to the way things used to be many years ago.

HUMAN RESOURCES

As you know, animals such as cows are raised so that they can be killed and used for food. Of course, you know that juicy stakes come from beef cows but you may not know that, when a cow is slaughtered, absolutely nothing on that cow goes to waste. Every bit of that cow is used for something. Absolutely nothing remains unused or thrown away.

With that idea in mind, we want turn our attention to people - like you. At one time, a dead human body had no value. However, through the ingenuity of science, this is no longer true. Actually, the average person is worth more money dead than alive since the person can be chopped up and sold for parts. We know about organ transplants - a multi billion dollar industry - however, most people do not know that dead people face the same fate as dead cows. Nothing goes to waste. Every bit of your dead body is worth money to some industry. The general name for this relatively new industry is "Body Brokers" and Reuters - which is a reputable source - did a series on this industry which you can read here [2].

Don't live under the illusion that telling a hospital you do not want to be chopped up and sold. If you die in a hospital, they don't care what you have said or written. They are going to do whatever they please. Dead men tell no tales.

Some countries operate quite openly. In China, the political prison is located very close to the transplant hospital. If you need some spare parts - like a heart, lungs, kidneys or whatever - and you have the money, you can go to China and check in to the transplant hospital. Once they have determined the requirements for a compatible "donor", they will call the political prison and a suitable person will be located and slaughtered to provide you with whatever you need. The political prison is always well stocked since almost anything you do or say which disagrees with government policy can get you sent there. China claims [3] that they have now stopped doing this, however, remember that this is a closed communist country and so their claims cannot be verified.

You should also know - if you are a female - that hospitals likely make more money selling the afterbirth should you have a child than they do charging you to have the child. There is a huge demand for this material and a truck is always waiting out back. Freshness is very critical so hospital staff pay more attention to collecting the afterbirth than they do to your new baby!

AGENDA 2030

Essentially, Agenda 2030 is the United Nations plan to reduce the human population of the Earth to five hundred million people by the year 2030. The plan appears to be on schedule. A combination of many techniques is being used to achieve this goal and many are actively being used today. Each nation has been assigned a quota of the number of people it can choose to survive beyond the year 2030. This period is the period referred to as "The New World Order" and it has been in the planning stages now for many years. Retired FBI Special Agent Ted Gunderson stated that the quota for the United States is only twenty million. Everyone else is to be killed. On the present schedule, this means you have less than ten years to live (unless you happen to have one of the twenty million "tickets" and so the "right" to continue to live).

Many people are involved in this master plan to exterminate most of humanity. 100000 scientists [4] have openly advocated mass extermination and the "globalists" now openly admit [5] their extermination agenda. Here are some quotes you should find enlightening concerning how/what these people think [6].

Perhaps the most vocal advocate of mass extermination is Bill Gates who was reportedly officially given his assignment when he was admitted into the Bilderberg group some years back. Although Gates is most known for Microsoft, his parents were reportedly very active in the Eugenics movement years ago where young girls were secretly sterilized because some "expert" predicted that any kids they might have would be "inferior". Essentially, this was pure Nazi philosophy. Bill Gates makes no secret of his desires and intentions and you can watch him discuss his plans on quite a few YouTube videos. He mainly wants to kill people with vaccines and especially vaccines which will sterilize people.

As we have stated in previous books, for over one hundred years the governments of the world have been constructing a "second Earth" underground which is now essentially complete. This secret Earth, which ordinary people don't even know exists, consists of a global network of underground cities and various support facilities which are all linked by high speed (Mach two speed) trains which travel through underground tubes which are kept at near vacuum which allows for the extremely high speed. Secret entrances to the "underground world" are strategically located all over the world and many "chosen" people live and work there today.

ARCHITECTS OF THE NEW WORLD

Essentially, "intellectuals", who believe it is their right and duty to tell "ordinary" people how to live their lives form the core of the planners of the so called New World. You can read an early form of their "vision" of the future of humankind detailed by the "insiders" in 1969 here [7]. And, you can read a more recent and condensed version here [8]. In this article, the correct population total for the New World is 500 million.

Assumption Errors

It is only fair to point out some assumption errors (that the planners certainly know but pretend ignorance) which invalidate most of their motives and predictions. They like to say that people are destroying the planet by burning fossil fuels. That's true BUT it is true only because the government refuses to release the secrets of free energy which it has known and used (for itself) since the days of Nikola Tesla. If they told people the truth, there would be no need to use fossil fuels and if they released the secrets of antigravity, there would be no need for aircraft to consume fuel either. However, since they insist on forcing the general population to live in the past, ordinary people have no choice but to do these things. They apparently want to hold on to the truth until after the New World has been set up. Of course, in secret, they use all these things today and have used them for quite some time now.

Key Players

To begin at the beginning, this plot begins with the Rothchilds. Rothchild hired a man named Adam Weishaupt - who was trained by the Jesuit Order (intelligence division) of the Catholic Church - to write a master plan for world domination. This was in the year 1770. Our book, "NWO Progress Notes", covers this in great detail.

The Catholic Involvement

The Catholic Church is the origin of many groups which follow the "Left Hand Path" and therefore seek power, riches and, eventually, world domination. All of the rituals and "secrets" of the Masonic Order were designed by the Catholic Church and are the same today as they were when first created. Very few Masons even know this. The Illuminati officially began in 1776 - the same year the United States officially began. The Illuminati is totally managed by the Catholic Church from the Vatican and people are initiated into the Illuminati at the age of twelve at a ritual held in the basement of the Vatican. Therefore, the Illuminati initiates new members from families who are already Illuminati. They take their kids to be initiated. The initiation ceremony - which includes the sacrifice of a human child (generally a male) is quite intense and would leave an indelible psychic impression on the twelve year old kid. Once initiated, you remain Illuminati for life.

Now, we wish to discuss characteristics common to all Catholic related secret societies. Once you become a member, you remain a member for life. However, your "rank" in whatever group you are in totally depends upon your efforts and successes at developing your Black Magick skills on the Left Hand Path. The various titles given to members are not arbitrary. They indicate specific levels of progress. In the Catholic Church, titles such as "Brother", "Priest", "Bishop", "Cardinal", and so on indicate specific skill levels that you have mastered. Cardinals, for example, can read other people's minds and also have other so called "superhuman powers".

Illuminati levels are not public but follow the same pattern. Internet reports suggest that Hillary Clinton - who is reportedly Illuminati - holds the title "Level Six Witch", however the details of this title are not enumerated.

Masons reportedly "blend" with the Illuminati beyond the 33rd. degree. No one talks about activities beyond this point. The formal oath to Satan is taken at the 30th. degree ceremony.

The point here is that, essentially, all these groups are the same and all linked to the Catholic Church.

The Role of Doctors

The general conception of doctors is incorrect. People think doctors all take the Hippocratic Oath and that it is a pledge to "do no harm". Many of the books in our home came from my grandmother and included an unabridged dictionary at least eight inches thick printed in the 1800's. In that dictionary, the Hippocratic Oath was defined as an oath doctors take in which they promise to "Preserve inviolate the secrets of medicine". It says nothing at all about "doing no harm". It is a promise not to let "ordinary" people know the truth that they were taught in medical school.

Today, many doctors are government agents to one degree or the other. Many hold Top Secret (Q) security clearances which makes them direct government agents. When President Obama instituted Electronic Medical Records (EMR), all of your medical records were sent to the government and added to your "file". Now, anything you say to a doctor is immediately sent to the government, The EMR system is accessible to essentially any government agency and also select private groups. So, any hint of confidentiality between you and your doctor has now evaporated and I bet you didn't even know. The EMR system has greatly increased the ability of the government to gather "human intelligence" (HUMINT) on pretty much every citizen.

Also, this information is used for population control. Basically, computers calculate the cost to the government to keep you alive verses the value of productivity you provide to their society. If the value is positive, doctors will be encouraged to keep you healthy. However, if the value is negative, doctors will be encouraged to arrange for an early death since you are now a "burden". This is essentially basic Nazi philosophy.

Times Change

The master plan for world domination was conceived around 1770. Much has changed since then, however the basic plan has not. Around 1913, relationships with aliens (ET's) began and provided the leaders with technology far beyond their present level of knowledge and abilities. Of course, the governments kept all that secret and used it to create a police state where every one and everything was under constant surveillance. They also learned new and generally undetectable methods to kill people who somehow got in their way.

Without this knowledge, although the elite could "dream", in practical reality, it would not have been possible to kill everyone in the world except for a pre selected group of five hundred million. However, it is now.
